

Singing Sons of Beaches

The Singing Sons of Beaches is an entertaining vocal trio with acoustic guitars that present a musical-comedy show full of good conversation, original, general and political comedy songs, and beautiful harmonies. These three Montana men have entertained together publicly for over ten years. Steve Riddle, Greg Devlin, and Nick Terhaar, comprise this entertaining and witty group and they are well received where-ever they go. Their show is indigenous to the western states and the western state of mind. With songs about its people and it's cities it has become a favorite Montana entertaining group that is highly sought after.

Steve Riddle, a professional Radiation Oncology Therapist, and member of Montana's legendary Mission Mountain Wood Band, along with Greg Devlin, a financial and investment broker, a member of The Singing Sergeants, (the official chorus of the U.S. Air Force), and the featured solo tenor with The Montana Symphony Chorale. They have teamed up with Nick Terhaar, who is a private finishing contractor in the Flathead Valley and the oldest of a 10-children musical family from Miles City. It has been said that they never really had a name for their group in the beginning, but everyone that has experienced their music has gone away saying, "I didn't catch their names but, boy, I tell ya what, those guys are some singing sons of beaches."

Ka Waikahe Lani Malie

Our Mission Statement:

This is our time to share the hula and our culture, because it is something we truly love and respect.

Through our learned principals, we shall pass down to the generations, just as those before us.

Confidence, humility, and a true nurturing for those around us and all that we are blessed to share, allows hula to flourish.
