

HRevolution

Reflect. Change. Evolve.

John Fosdick

Group Business Development Manager, DHS

Prior to his current role at DHS Group, Fosdick, who has his B.B.A. in Finance from The University of Texas at Austin, held senior account and director-level positions at both Petris Technology and Oxand, Inc. After realizing the potential for growth and development in the health and wellness data and analytics industry, he joined DHS Group as the Business Development Manager for Western US Accounts. At DHS Group, John demonstrates sales and leadership experience in both operations and sales and has successfully increased clientele relations and opportunities in his management region. Through his work and the rest of the DHS Group team, the company is an emerging leader in North America’s growing population health space.

Driving Health Care Benefit Strategy and Culture with Data

In this session we will discuss:

- Why you need data to create an effective benefit & wellbeing strategy.
 - What data you should be reviewing, and where to get that data.
 - What key metrics should be reviewed.
 - The value of integrating data.
 - The benefits of a data driven strategy.

When: May 1st—3rd, 2019

Where: Fairmont Hot Springs, Anaconda, MT

Register today at: Montana.SHRM.org/2019-Conference